

All-In Community Collaboration (AICC)

“Doing Reentry Better”

All-In Community Collaboration is being developed to prepare the local church to receive, engage, support and disciple the formerly incarcerated entering communities in close proximity to the church.

The All-In Community Collaboration, with support from the West Ohio Conference Office is committed to providing opportunities for training, access to resources and assistance implementing reentry best practices.

Equipping the local church to become more effective at dealing with key criminogenic needs of the formerly incarcerated is at the heart of the All-In Community Collaboration. These needs include; pro-social thinking/attitudes, social support/families and friends and impulsivity/decision-making.

The All-In Community Collaboration is committed to employing strategies that will strengthen local networks of churches, organizations, correctional institutions, government agencies and individuals who are committed to providing on-going support for our efforts to do reentry better on the West Ohio Conference Mission Field.
